

The Tarboro' Southerner.

The old Man in the Model Church.

Well, wife, I've found a model church! I worshipped there last night!
I made one flock of good old times before my hair was gray.
The meeting-house was fixed up more than but one year ago.
But then I felt, when I went in, it wasn't built for show.
The sexton didn't send me away back by the door.
He knew that I was old and deaf, as well as old and poor.
He must have been a Christian, for he led me through.
The long aisle of that crowded church to find a place and pew.
I wish a good heart that sing'd; it had the old time ring.
The preacher said, with trumpet-voice, "Let all the people sing!"
The tune was "Coronation," and the music upward rolled.
Till I thought I heard the angels strolling at their harp of gold.
My deafness seemed to melt away; my spirit caught the fire.
I joined my feeble, trembling voice with that melodious choir.
And sang as in my youthful days, "Let angels praise his name."
Beneath the coral diadem and crown "Hail Lord of all!"
I tell you, wife, it did me good to sing that hymn once more.
I felt like some wrecked mariner who gets a glimpse of shore.
I almost wanted to lay down this weather-beaten form,
And anchor in that blessed port, forever from the storm.

The preacher's Well, I can't just tell all that the preacher said.

I know it was not written. I know it wasn't read!
He hadn't time to read it, for the lightening from his eye,
Went flashing long from pew to pew, nor passed a sinner by.
The sermon wasn't flow'ry; 'twas simple gospel truth!
It fazed poor old men like me; it fitted loyal youth!
'Twas full of consolation for weary hearts that loved,
'Twas full of invitations, to Christ, and not to creed.
The preacher made sin hideous, to Gentiles and Jews;
He shot the golden sentences down in the truest dew.
And though I can't see very well—I saw the falling dew.
That told me he was somewhere off, and heaven very near.
How swift the golden moments fled within that holy place!
How brightly beamed the light of heaven, from every happy face!
Again I longed for that sweet time, when friend and saint met with friend;
Where congregations never break up, and Sabbaths have no end;
I hope to meet that minister that congregation soon—
In that dear home beyond the stars, that shine from heaven's throne.
I don't not I'll remember, beyond life's evening gray,
The happy hour of worship in that model church to-day.
Dear wife, the fight will soon be fought—the victory be won;
The shining goal is just ahead; the race is nearly run.
O'er the river we are near, they are through; to the shore,
To shout our safe arrival, where the weary sleep no more.

SPUGIANNNA.

Why do girls kiss each other, and men do not? Because girls have nothing better to kiss, and men have.
An Englishman was asked the other day, how he spelled, S-P-U-G-I-A-N-N-A.
He answered with a laugh, "I-a and a hell, two holes and a hat."
A cynical lady, lately inclined to flirt, says most men are like a cold—very easy caught, but hard to get rid of.
The dress makers are very zealous in their support of the newspapers.—They p-ter-ter all that fall into their hands, and there is considerable of a bustle, too, in the way they do it.

A colored clergyman in Philadelphia recently gave notice as follows from the pulpit: "There will be four days' meeting every evening" This was except Wednesday afternoon.

A correspondent wants to know what kind of a brand would be the best to accompany a lady socialist in giving concerts around the country? A husband most decidedly.

A widow said to her daughter: When you are at my age it will be time enough to dream of a husband. Yes, mamma, replied the thoughtful girl of a second one. The mother faints.

Fred, said a young man, the other day, after listening to his wonderful story, do you know why you are like a barn struck by lightning? No, said Fred; I give it up. Because a barn struck by lightning is a blasted barn.

Not long ago, in the Court of Appeals, a certain lawyer of Celtic extraction, while arguing with earnestness his case, started a point and then proceeded: "And, if it please the court, I am wrong in this, I have another point that is equally conclusive."

A professor, in explaining to a class of young ladies the theory according to which the body is entirely renewed every seven years, said: "Now, Miss B, in seven years you will be really be no longer Miss B. I really hope I shall, if I don't respond to the girl, eating down her eyes."

A Kansas man dropped a note to a neighbor's wife, inviting her to meet him at the old silver mine. The lady had not the slightest idea of the silver mine, but she went. The Kansas man, in whom they found a rich lead mine.
